

My Affirmation of Faith

God Knows Who I Am – and I Know Who I Am!

God created me – that was His choice – He created me because He wanted me – and He wants me today.

I am a person – there is only one of me – and God loves me. He loves me now – just the way I am. I do not have to earn His love – He has given Himself to me freely.

I have self-consciousness and I am aware of God, myself, people and things.

I have self-determination and I can make good and bad choices.

I have chosen to believe in the Lord Jesus. I believe He is Who He said He is. I believe He will do what He said He will do. And, I believe He will do what He said He will do – today. Therefore, I believe I belong to Him, that I am forgiven, and that I am His child.

I believe He has given me many rights and privileges: the right to believe truth, the right to have assurance, the right and ability to do His will, the right to have and exercise His gifts, the right to pray, the right to enjoy Him, the right to have authority over the Devil, and the right to be filled with the Blessed Holy Spirit.

I believe I have all these rights and privileges now—in spite of how I feel and in spite of what is happening to me.

I declare that God knows who I am and I know who I am.
